

My name is Salina. I have received sms from Melwani International on their Apparel Sale.♦ On 6 February 2010, I have purchase 4 pairs of Levis Jeans from Melwani2u International Sdn. Bhd thru CIMB Internet banking. (The transaction slip thru CIMB Clicks is append above). According to Melwani, I should receive the goods within 2 week of delivery but unfortunately, until today I have not received anything.♦ For your info, this company does not have any contact no. You can only access thru their website at www.melwani2u.com. I'm worry that I have been conned by this company. Therefore, I am seeking your assistant to help me out in getting my goods.
NCCC Status: Matter has been highlighted to the parent company and a copy has been sent to Malaysia Communication & Multimedia Commission, Companies Commission and Ministry Of Domestic Trade, Cooperatives and Consumerism for their view and action.

Attention All consumers: Kindly take note that as a consumers, we bares certain responsibility to collect information and must be very very sure and careful about whom you are dealing and paying!!! Because there a lot of companies which collects money without an intention to supply but what is our role as a consumer? Please be very careful there is plenty of sources available to check about the background of the company or website that you going to commit your self by paying online.

Do not simply trust all the websites and provide all your information. Please be reminded that we as a consumer must have some concrete details about the web running company and contact no so that enforcement or any people can assist.

A simple internet check or a simple logic to get the companies contact number and attempt to contact them before we transact will keep us in a safer side compare to be left without any information.

Again we would like to remind consumers as usual ♦Change begin with us♦.
