The Malay Mail : May 2007◆THE Government is not planning to amend the regulation on vehicles with tinted glass, Dewan Negara was told yesterday.Deputy Transport Minister Datuk Douglas Uggah Embas said the level of light penetration under the rule was adequate to shield the driver and passengers from the sun's rays.

Under the Motor Vehicle (Prohibition of Certain Types of Glass) Rules 1991, the level of light penetration should not be less than 70 per cent for the front windscreen and not less than 50 per cent for rear windscreen and side windows.

Those caught using tints above this limit can be fined up to RM300. ◆ Bernama ◆
